Patrick Winters is President of S2ET Consulting and his passion for organizational excellence led him to establish the firm that specializes in organizational assessments/evaluations based on nonprofit standards and best practices, conduct executive searches and provide interim CEO services. Prior to establishing his consulting practice he was a career association executive specializing in startups and turnarounds.

During his career he has:

- Been awarded “Association Executive of the Year” by his peers.
- Awarded “Association of the Year” in national competition.
- Earned Certified Association Executive (CAE), Institute for Organization Management (IOM) and Certified Meeting Professional (CMP) designations.
- Conducts “Striving for Excellence” organizational evaluations reviewing the ten functional areas of nonprofit organizations against standards and best practices.
- Serves as a Peer Reviewer of the Standards for Excellence Institute responsible for evaluating organizations for compliance with the Ethics and Accountability Code for the Nonprofit Sector.
- Developed and administered American National Standards Institute (ANSI) accredited certification and standards programs.
- Appointed to the Malcom Baldrige Performance Excellence Program Board of Examiners, the nation’s only Presidential Award for business and nonprofit organizational performance excellence.
- Elected to ANSI Personnel Certification Accreditation Committee accrediting certification organizations
- Contributor to the American Society of Association Executives (ASAE) book Managing Association Turnarounds.

He earned his BS degree in Political Science from Illinois State University, Masters in Public Administration studies from the University of Colorado and Institute for Organization Management (IOM) recognition from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce at the University of Notre Dame.
