Jason E. Ebey, IOM, has a passion for Chambers of Commerce and has been leading chambers of commerce for nearly two decades. He believes in the positive power and influence chambers can have in their communities.

Jason joined YGM Total Resource Campaigns, LLC in 2012 and became CEO after he purchased the company in mid-2015. Because of his travels and his work with chambers across the country through YGM, Jason has the pulse of changing trends in chamber management and fundraising.

He understands the needs of chambers and their members. His knowledge base easily translates into moving groups of new volunteers to dedicated chamber advocates. He is able to provide chambers with innovative approaches to fundraising.

Jason has completed the United States Chamber of Commerce Institute of Organizational Management (IOM) and is working toward his master's degree in non-profit administration and management.

He has been the President and CEO of three chambers – ranging from chambers where he was the only staffer to those where he supervised seven staff members. He also led the Government Relations and Communications division of another chamber.

Jason enjoys navigating life with his wife Brittany and their four children.
